Pool Opening Event

02 November 2025

I'm pleased to announce that this season, we will have free entry for everyone at the Three Springs Pool. That means no payments or season tickets — just come and enjoy!

This is a trial for a year, and we hope the free entry will encourage more families to enjoy our pool on hot summer days.

We ask all community members to help us maintain a safe and respectful environment at the pool. We'll still need to record attendance numbers as part of our safety requirements, so your patience with staff during this process is greatly appreciated.

The pool opening hours will remain the same as last year, [Thu – Tue (12pm-6pm)] with early morning swims on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays, and Wednesday will continue to be the day that the pool will be closed.

I'd like to acknowledge and thank Vikki, our wonderful Pool Manager, the Three Springs Police, St John Ambulance, and our many local volunteers for their continued support each year, both in keeping our facility safe and assisting during events and emergencies.

A special thanks also goes to the Three Springs Lions Club who once again, provided the BBQ sausage sizzle for the Pool opening day, as they have done for so many of our community events.

I hope the weather (and pool) continues to warm up and we have a wonderful season at the pool.

Nadine Eva
President, Shire of Three Springs

Join the Mid West Development Commission Board

Call for Board Nominations - Community Appointment

The Mid West Development Commission invites members of the community to apply for a position on our Board. The Commission's role is to coordinate and promote regional and economic development in the Mid West region. As a statutory authority of the WA Government, the Commission aims to maximise job creation, broaden local economies, identify the need for infrastructure services, provide information and advice to business, ensure equitable access to government services and improve regional quality of life.

Our six-member Board comprises representatives of local government and community and meets bi-monthly to set policy and make decisions about a broad range of economic and regional development projects.

The Commission values diversity, and encourages applications from people with diverse backgrounds and experience. Persons nominated as a prospective member should possess interest and knowledge relevant to regional communities. Relevant areas of experience could include business and industry, employment, community services, education and training, tourism and recreation.

Applicants will be assessed on their ability to make a significant contribution to a board, together with a demonstrated involvement in either the economic or social development of the region.

Applicants must reside within the Mid West. The term of appointment will be between one and three years. For a Board Nomination Form, visit www.mwdc.wa.gov.au or contact the Executive Officer to the Board on (08) 9956 8593 or ea.mwdc@mwdc.wa.gov.au.

Nominations close on 28 November 2025.

Peace of mind or piece of junk. Is shipping insurance worth it?

Have you been online shopping recently and noticed a sneaky little shipping insurance charge at the checkout? Maybe it was pre-selected for you to opt-out or you could have been lucky enough to be using an online retailer who hadn't yet crossed over to using dark patterns designed to trick you.

Either way, this used to be something only the seller paid for, but it's slowly making its way into consumers' carts claiming to offer you protection and peace of mind if something goes wrong after the item is posted.

Shipping insurance is like the "extended warranty" of the online retail world. That means you're probably paying extra for protection the Australian Consumer Law (ACL) already gives you. If your item arrives broken, is delivered to the wrong house, is stolen from the doorstep or it never arrives at all, you can rely on your trusty consumer rights.

Unfortunately, many people believe or are told by the retailer that they need to take up any delivery issues with Australia Post or the courier service. This is wrong.

The online retailer is responsible. They are the ones who hold the contract with the courier service. In other words – they are the customer of the courier service, and you are the customer of the retailer. You have absolutely no consumer relationship with the courier.

When there is an issue with the delivery, the retailer is obliged to offer you a remedy such as a repair, refund or replacement and these rights apply regardless of whether shipping insurance was purchased.

If an online retailer tells you otherwise, they could be breaking the law.

There are some steps you can take to protect yourself, especially with the busy Christmas postage season ahead. When placing an order, confirm the timeframe for delivery or if possible, a set date. Keep a record of your transaction by saving or printing your order confirmation, invoice or receipt.

If the item arrives broken, depending on the extent of the damage, you may be entitled to a refund, repair or replacement. The retailer should also cover the return postage costs.

Before you return the product to the seller, take a photo of the damage for your own records.

As with any consumer issues, contact the retailer and attempt to resolve it with them first. If that gets you nowhere consider seeking a charge back on your credit card via your bank or payment provider. This highlights the importance of only paying through secure methods, our advice is to never pay via bank transfer as you often cannot get your money back.

Remember, businesses who supply within or to Australia must send the goods within a reasonable amount of time or within a timeframe they have indicated, and they must supply a product of acceptable quality. These are your consumer rights. However, the law is much harder to enforce internationally, so keep this in mind when doing your online shopping.

If you're still unsure about whether shipping insurance is worth the extra money, read the terms and conditions to find out what protection it offers you above and beyond your automatic consumer rights.

For more information or to get help seeking a remedy from a retailer, report it to us at consumerprotection.wa.gov.au or call 1300 30 40 54.

If your complaint involves Australia Post or Star Track you can lodge a formal complaint with the Postal Industry Ombudsman.
