Strengthening network resilience from the skies

Western Power has commenced work to treat more than 19,000 power poles via helicopter across the Mid West and Wheatbelt regions to enhance network resilience and reduce the risk of pole-top fires.

The work involves applying a silicone treatment to Western Power infrastructure within the shires of Carnamah, Chapman Valley, Coorow, Dalwallinu, Dandaragan, Gingin, Goomalling, Greater Geraldton, Irwin, Mingenew, Moora, Morawa, Northampton, Perenjori, Three Springs, Victoria Plains, and Wongan-Ballidu.

Executive Manager of Asset Management Gair Landsborough said dust and airborne pollutants can accumulate on insulators - particularly during harvest season. When combined with light rain or humid conditions, this can cause 'tracking' - where electricity flows across the surface of the insulator potentially causing pole-top fires.

"To mitigate this risk and enhance safety and reliability we apply a silicone treatment to the insulators preventing 'tracking' and the use of helicopters allows us to carry out the work across a vast section of our network efficiently and safely," he said.

"This work forms part of Western Power's broader network resilience program, which aims to improve power reliability across the South-West Interconnected System."

The current phase of work is already underway and is scheduled for completion by mid-2026. Once complete, more than 60,000 poles will have been treated since September 2023, strengthening the network and enhancing power reliability for homes and businesses.

This program complements a package of work that commenced in January to treat an additional 15,900 poles throughout the Wheatbelt region.

To learn more, including where and when work is taking place, visit

THREE SPRINGS WILDFLOWER SHOW AND ART EXHIBITION WRAP UP

It Takes a Village: A Collective Effort

The phrase “It takes a village” comes from the longer proverb “It takes a village to raise a child.” This saying is often used more generally to highlight that significant tasks or challenges are best addressed through collective effort rather than relying solely on one person.

This concept is particularly relevant when it comes to organizing The Wildflower Show and Art Exhibition.

Behind every success is a strong community.

REFRESHMENTS AFTER MEETING

I've just got home from one of my 'Northern wheatbelt networking drives, really this encompasses the central wheatbelt. On these trips I stop in at the CRCs and shires along the way talking to staff as well as chatting to locals in the cafes, pubs and shops. Again I heard the passion people have for their communities and also very importantly how people were also genuinely caring and concerned for each other.

I witnessed people being there for their friend. One instance was where someone openly thanked his mate for being there and listening to him stating 'I have managed to sort this out now thanks to you'. His mate said 'No probs mate'. Another described how he and a mate had been talking on a Friday for years about all sorts of bull... Then when he was going through a confronting hard time had said to his mate, 'I just want to say thanks and sorry that I'm off-loading all my stuff on to you'. His mate being the legend he is answered, 'We have been talking about all sorts of stuff for ages together so we can talk about anything anytime'. Positive signs that when someone reaches out in times of difficulty there is someone there.

Other conversations held was around people stating that they hear a lot of 'Mental Health stuff lately. To much where people get sick of hearing it and switch off'. Maybe this is true for those who are OK. But my belief is that there is still a silent crisis caused by the stigma of Mental Health; resulting in someone not seeking help through a fear of being branded or judged. Reaching out for help when we are struggling takes a lot of strength requiring us to be vulnerable. If the message we see and hear manage to reach that one person struggling at that time and that one person then hearing that message reaches out and receives assistance, then that message was essential.

This perceived belief that some emotions although natural should not be shown is a result of generations reinforcing the wrong message of what and who we should be. When we were a very young child watching, listening and learning, hearing our heroes as a child, that strong parental figure, hanging on their every word and action. We learnt from our heroes that staying silent is strength, don't be a sook, harden up and worse. How wrong our heroes were. Now as adults we can role model to our children and to our peers how our emotions and feelings are there to be noticed and acted on. Struggling doesn't mean your broken it means you are human. We can role model that asking for help when not yourself mentally is as normal as going to a doctor when you feel sick with the flue. Breaking down the stigma of mental health happens one conversation and one person at a time. Each of us can be that change starting now.

Three Springs 360 Event Cancellation Notice

Total Asphalt Three Springs

After consultation with local farmers, the club has made the difficult decision to cancel Total Asphalt Three Springs.

The recent heavy rainfall has made the track impassable and unsafe for competition, and competitor safety remains our top priority.

We understand this news may be disappointing and truly appreciate your understanding and support.

Thank you to everyone who helped prepare for the event, including our event sponsors, the Shire of Three Springs, and our hardworking committee.

Stay tuned for updates on future events — we look forward to seeing you soon!

Recognising the voices making a difference for WA consumers

Across the Western Australian community, countless individuals and organisations dedicate themselves to supporting and empowering consumers, whether through education, advocacy, promoting product safety, or driving change.

The search is on for outstanding WA individuals, organisations and groups who are strong advocates for consumer rights, with nominations now open for the prestigious Consumer Protection Awards.

Now in its 21st year, the awards shine a spotlight on the great and important work being carried out in the community such as educating the public on tenancy, scams, debts and contracts, promoting safe product use to prevent childhood injuries, or advocating for vulnerable consumers. They also recognise achievements in creating a greater understanding of consumer law, improving complaints and dispute processes, and influencing policy reform.

There are four categories: Rona Okely – for individuals; Richard (Dick) Fletcher – for groups, services or projects; Ruby Hutchison Media – for stand out media and Kidsafe WA – for individuals or groups raising awareness for product safety and injury prevention for children.

Each category winner will receive a $2,500 cash prize, a trophy and a certificate, presented by Commerce Minister Tony Buti on Friday 13 March 2026.

Winners from the 2024 Consumer Protection Awards included a project that empowers tenants with disabilities to prevent evictions and reduce homelessness, a financial counsellor who works with vulnerable Aboriginal communities in remote areas, and a regional journalist who reported on cruise refund issues that prompted a class action and improved accountability.

If you know an incredible person or group doing amazing work to benefit the community and contribute positively to consumer protection in WA, consider nominating them for an award. It's a great way to recognise those making a real difference in the lives of WA consumers and tenants.

Nomination forms can be completed on the Consumer Protection Awards website consumerprotection.wa.gov.au and will close on Thursday, 30 October 2025.

For enquiries, contact the Consumer Protection Awards Coordinator on 1300 30 40 54 or email cpawards@lgirs.wa.gov.au

TS SHIRE POUND UPDATE

We have updated our procedures for managing animals and the pound. These changes will make administrative processes easier for customers and the Depot Pound, while ensuring the well-being of the animals.

Please note the following changes:

MONDAY Wandering or feral trapped animals received on these days only.
TUESDAY

It is the responsibility of all animal owners to keep them within your property boundaries.

Adequate fencing for dogs to keep them from wandering and getting out of their home is important. If your pet is wandering it creates a risk for your pet but also to other people and their pets.

Cat Patios or Large Cat Cages are the best option for your cats comfort especially for their own safety. Failure to keep your animals in a safe environment will result in infringements' and impound fees.

Strictly NO Depot access, please come to the Shire Administration Office for all enquiries.

Father's Day Event

What an incredible turnout for our Father's Day event today! Despite the wind and rain, the smiles and laughter made it a truly special afternoon. We kicked things off with a sizzling sausage sizzle at 1:00pm (thank you to Liz Burnett for stepping in last minute to help cook the sausages!). During the lunch hour, the library was buzzing with games and activities, Once the siren sounded, each class hosted their own fun-filled sessions until 2:30pm. From finger painting and shaving cream chaos to "Dad & Me" quiz games and even some friendly maths tests. It was heartwarming to see our students so excited to share the day with their dads, uncles, pops, and the special father figures in their lives. A HUGE thank you to all who joined us. You're doing an amazing job, and we loved having you here.
